AJL Bibliography Bank

Elana Gensler
Hebrew Academy of Long Beach, Long Beach, NY, egensler@aol.com

Follow this and additional works at: http://ajlpublishing.org/jl

Part of the Bilingual, Multilingual, and Multicultural Education Commons, Information Literacy Commons, Jewish Studies Commons, and the Reading and Language Commons

Recommended Citation
Reference Department

AJL Bibliography Bank

Elana Gensler
Hebrew Academy of Long Beach
Long Beach, NY

Abstract: The AJL Bibliography Bank was established in 1995 to disseminate informative bibliographies to its members. Patrons of the Bank may request or contribute bibliographies. This article discusses the history of the Bank, how it is run and its future plans.

Introduction

The Association of Jewish Libraries (AJL) Bibliography Bank was created as a service for AJL members. Synagogue and school librarians tend to feel isolated in their individual settings. The Bank is a way of helping these devoted individuals.

Every librarian creates bibliographies as part of his/her job. Instead of using them just in your own library, why not share with others? Send your lists to the Bank.

The Bibliography Bank was conceptualized in 1995 by Toby Rossner, then AJL SSC (Synagogue, School, Center Division) President. Toby conceived the idea after attending a conference of the Coalition for the Advancement of Jewish Education (CAJE) where she learned about the Curriculum Bank that is set up as a sharing of curriculum materials amongst its members. The thought of bringing this service to AJL was an excellent one.

Amalia Warsenbrot graciously chaired the Bank, in response to the professional help she received from AJL. Together, Toby and Amalia created the policies and Amalia faithfully served as chair for five years.

In 1996, there were 55 bibliographies in the Bank; in 2002, there were 112. The number of requested bibliographies has risen from 23 in 1996 to 406 in 2001. These statistics obviously show how needed and appreciated the Bank is.

Mechanics – How Does the Bank Work?

The constantly updated list of bibliographies is maintained on the AJL web site: http://www.jewishlibraries.org. To view the list, click on Resources on the left hand side of the home page. Then click on the Bibliography Bank link.

Each AJL member may request three free bibliographies per calendar year, although two first class stamps are required for each order. If more bibliographies are needed, the cost is ten cents per page. For each bibliography contributed to the Bank, you will receive a credit for three free lists. Thus, the more you contribute, the more you save. There is no limit to the number of bibliographies that can be requested. As new bibliographies are received, the information is posted on Hasafran, the AJL listserv.

In order to contribute a bibliography, please follow these guidelines: A bibliography should have at least ten titles. While annotation is desirable, it is not a requirement. Bibliographies should include standard bibliographic information – author, title, publisher, copyright and number of pages. Date the list. Put your name and institution on the list. Print on one side of white paper only. Number the pages. If possible, submit the bibliographies electronically.

The list is constantly being updated, so check the web site. Deleted lists are stored in the AJL archives. No editing of bibliographies is done by AJL members and AJL will not endorse the content.

Bibliographies may be submitted electronically as this saves both postage and time in copying the lists. Since not all e-mail programs accept attachments in the same manner, paper copies are still kept of all bibliographies submitted.

It is hoped that one day all of the bibliographies will be available online, ready to print. As of now, the Bibliography Bank is a service for our members only. We would like this to remain as an incentive for people to join our organization. Updates of older bibliographies are always welcome. This keeps our list fresh and current.

The Bibliography Bank is here to stay. Please utilize this wonderful service by both requesting and contributing bibliographies.

Bibliography List

Toby conceived the idea of bringing this sharing of curriculum materials amongst its members. The thought of bringing this service to AJL was an excellent one.

— "Teaching Tolerance." 2000. 1 page. A selected bibliography and videography for elementary and middle schools. Teacher resources and curricula are included.

“Tzedakah and Maakhil R’evim (Feeding the hungry).” [n.d.]. 4 pages. Annotated. Web sites and books about tzedakah and feeding the hungry. Fiction and nonfiction. Grade levels given.

“Best Videos 2000.” 2000. 5 pages. Lists over eighty videos. Includes list of sources and distributors with email addresses and phone numbers. No grade levels are given.

“Bar/Bat Mitzvah Resources.” 2000. 4 pages. Annotated. Preparing for a D’var Torah for both students and parents. Includes stories and insights based on the Torah portion, background information on Bar/Bat Mitzvah, Bar/Bat Mitzvah fiction and resources for parents.

“Boy’s Book Club Suggested Reading: Grades 4-6.” 2000. 5 pages. Annotated. Books are divided into categories: contemporary, science fiction, Israel, historical fiction, World War II and biography. Other resources are included. Available electronically.

“Books to Help Children Cope With Change, Conflict and Crisis.” 2000. 4 pages. Annotated. Books and videos dealing with such topics as death and dying, old age, and divorce. Grade levels are given.

“Explore Israel (Books and Videos).” 2001. 5 pages. Annotated. Recent books and videos about Israel for elementary and middle school grades.

“Books to Help Children Cope With Change, Conflict and Crisis.” 2000. 4 pages. Annotated. Books and videos dealing with such topics as death and dying, old age, and divorce. Grade levels are given.

“Explore Israel (Books and Videos).” 2001. 5 pages. Annotated. Recent books and videos about Israel for elementary and middle school grades.

Rossner, Toby. "Sensitive Issues: Children's Books & Videos." 1999. 6 pages. Annotated. Using children's books to explore sensitive issues such as adoption, death, divorce and moving. Activities and questions to ask while reading are included.

Elana Gensler is the AJL Vice President for Publication and past chair of the AJL Bibliography Bank. She is the School Library Media Specialist at the Hebrew Academy of Long Beach in New York and is also the editor of Sifriah, the newsletter of the Long Island Chapter of AJL.